Survey of the Month

What is your opinion about the prohibition of the use mobile phones in banks?

- Great initiative because it prevents the "exits from banks".
- The banks should increase their agencies' security.
- The measure is unconstitutional, because it restricts people's freedom.

Jaime Lerner talks to Young Businessmen

The first FIESP's Young Businessmen Committee meeting was held on February 28th of 2012, and counted with a record public. The architect, city planner, Parana's ex-mayor and ex-governor, Jaime Lerner, talked to an audience of more than 500 young businessmen and students, Lerner demonstrated that initiative is essential to people that want to make difference in what they do and emphasized "All lifelong we face 'things that cannot be done', and I always ask 'Why not?' Innovate is to start!". Focusing his examples in urbanism projects, mobility and sustainability in metropolis, explained that simple intermissions can solve or help to solve historic and complex problems of a city. When talking about Sao Paulo, Lerner praised its train system and invited the population to use it more in a relaxation speech e criticized the abusive usage of cars: "Cars are like mother-in-law. You must have a good relationship, but you cannot let it control your life", commented. The Nucleo Team was in the event and enjoyed from lessons that demonstrated the humanization of this great Brazilian. More information www.cjefiesp.com.br.
