Reflection

"Some men see things as they are and say: why? I dream things that never were and say: why not?"

Editorial

Nucleo 2013

This will be a great year for Nucleo! The establishment of the new office in the US (already operating); the consolidation of strategic partnerships; the development of new business in Corporate Security; the public recognition of our services and our team of Consultants; and many more are enough reasons to believe in great achievements in 2013.

Technology will be, once again, our focus for this year, followed by a wave of awareness about risks and the benefits of treating them preventively. All this going on with the promotion of large corporations, which have been a strong driving force of these changes in Brazil, causing positive reflex in various sectors of economy.

We cannot forget the moment of public security lack in which we are living; however we still have time and conditions to reverse this bad situation that disturbs many cities in the country. With political willingness and focused in many private sector initiatives, Public Security may be restored to levels desired and deserved by the whole society. There is a solution!

We wish everyone a successful and much safer year.

Movie Suggestion

Name: "21"
Country: USA

Direction: Robert Luketic
Drama, 123 min.

Year: 2008

Commented Synopsis: A movie inspired by the true story of a brilliant students group from MIT (Massachusetts Institute of Technology), which have mastered the art of card counting and won millions at the casinos. Looking for a way to pay for his studies, Ben Campbell (Jim Sturgess) has just agreed to be recruited to participate in a risky plan to make money in Las Vegas. With the help of a genius in statistics teacher (Kevin Spacey) and armed with fake IDs, intelligence and a complicated system of counting cards, Ben and his friends can invade the impenetrable casinos. Now his challenge is to master the numbers and stay one step ahead of the casinos' surveillance to prevent that all gets out of control. "Despite the act of counting cards is not illegal, the risk is increasingly high and the challenge is to trick the security teams and circumvent systems that employ the highest technology. Get in this game!". Marcela Floriano
